SHOPPING & STYLE

Nadine Buch Poling

A RARE BREED

The Tiger's Eye, one of downtown Lititz's unique boutiques, offers something for the sophisticated woman that just can't be bought. Yes, there are artistic expressions of American-made accessories and fashion by Eileen Fisher, Babette, Flax and Barbara de Jonge. But there's a bygone era of personal service and exclusivity when it comes to the clothing and jewelry that just can't be duplicated. "When our customers shop here, they don't see themselves coming and going," says Gaylord Poling. He explains that his wife Nadine keeps track of who's wearing what to what event and doesn't buy multiples of the same thing to ensure her customers have a unique style.

As an accessories buyer at Doneckers for 30 years, Nadine Buch Poling "hired herself" after a company down-sizing and began a store of her own. The Tiger's Eye will celebrate 14 years in business in September. "My strength in accessories is the key to our success. Whether they're traveling or special occasion shopping for a granddaughter's wedding, our customers know they're going to get the whole outfit and feel good because it's all put together," says Nadine.

OUTDOOR EMPORIUM

Patio at Penn Stone is so much more than an outdoor furniture accessory store. The business is founded on hardscaping materials, which it still provides to the trade and homeowners. But it's the unique products from pavers and seating to lanterns and unusual planters, coupled with community involvement, classes and seminars, that keep folks coming back and finding new resources, along with a treasure or two for their outdoor area. Check out their website for upcoming events from composting and rainbarrel workshops to outdoor pizza ovens and container gardening.

FASHION-FORWARD FRAMES

"Higashi Eyewear approaches eyewear as a fashion accessory...just as jewelry is," explains Susan Fotos, owner of Higashi Pearls and Fine Jewelry. "Your choice of eyewear tells a lot about your personality and style. You can select different eyewear for different occasions or aspects of your personality."

"We want you to love the frames you select," she adds. "I do not have an 'eyewear face' so I know it can take a long time to find some glasses that I think I look good in," which is the reason she started Higashi Eyewear—to fill a gap she felt existed in the market.

With a licensed optician on staff to help select the lenses that are the best fit for your prescription and lifestyle, they work closely with their lab to provide the latest state-of-the-art lenses, including new digital lenses, sunglasses and prescription frames.

Higashi's exclusive designer lines include:

Tiffany, Bulgari, Oliver Peoples, Tori Burch, Pucci, Paul Smith, Anne et Valentin, Axels, Maui Jim, Ray Ban, Prada and D&G, making it a great resource for fashion-forward frames.
